PROJECT BRIEF

Your wedding is an intimate reflection of you and as such requires musical and creative attention. To authentically convey that feeling to the guests sharing in this momentous day, your musical input is invaluable.

Over the next months, we'll be working with you on your wedding soundtrack. Building on our experience of what works and what doesn't, we'll guide you in the repertoire selection process from guest arrivals to closing song.

Most of the suggested acts below are open to learning new repertoire, so if you've got something specific in mind, let us know. While we'll try to our best to accommodate you, we'll also be honest when we feel something won't work musically or is not possible.

GUEST ARRIVALS

The simplest and most cost effective way of welcoming guests to your wedding is to have background music played through the PA. Depending on the type of ensemble booked for the ceremony we could also include some live instrumental music to welcome guests as they find their seats.

CEREMONY

Reflecting the intimate family ceremony you envision, we suggest keeping the entertainment here minimal by featuring a small ensemble including one or two vocalists with powerful voices.

Reinterpreting a range of songs from Drake's Hot Line Bling to Alicia Key's If I Ain't Got You, Ethan Florus is known for his smooth vocals and deft guitar playing. He developed his vocal and guitar skills during the 5 years he spent at the Stellenbosch University Konservatorium. He drives his passion for the art by sharing his skills through teaching, and his music through performing and recording.

Another great option to consider for the ceremony is solo guitar player and vocalist Lize Mynhardt.

Lize Mynhardt is a gifted, driven, and influential musician, spending the last decade writing and releasing her own songs. Born in Cape Town, South Africa, Lize was blessed with perfect pitch and has mastered seven instruments excluding her voice, making her a unique artist.

She has released 9 songs, a Christmas album in aid of Pebbles Project charity, and has collaborated with a diverse group of other artists including DJ Cosher, Howard Edward, DSB, DJ Qness, Ben Ludik and producers from Nashville.

PRE-DRINKS

Building on the emotion created at the ceremony, this period allows guests to catch up with friends and family while taking in their surroundings. The music during this time should animate and enliven those conversations not interfere or compete with them. Given that you'll be spending most of the pre-drinks period with your guests, we suggest that we go for a live musical option here.

Combining a 3-piece jazz ensemble - saxophone, bass and drums, with Ethan Florus on lead vocals and guitar, we open up the repertoire selection incorporating easy-listening jazz standards and more contemporary songs.

DINNER

Joined by a keys player, the same rhythm section that performed during pre-drinks can be used again during the dinner period. The interplay between the different instrumentalists provides variety for guests whether they are actively listening or not. Providing a sophisticated soundtrack for uninterrupted conversation, this set is mostly comprised easy-listening instrumental jazz.

PARTY

Given your repertoire choices for the party set, we recommend sticking to a DJ for the party section of the wedding. A DJ is a good alternative to a live performer. Musically speaking, DJs have a broader range of styles and songs to choose from, allowing them to take the music where the guests want it to go. Ultimately this set must be upbeat, featuring songs that appeal to the majority of your guests while also representing your musical preferences.

In addition to the DJ, we could look at adding some live accompaniments such trumpet, saxophone or even percussion.
