Music proposal - 16 January 2020

Tones of Note

Your wedding is an intimate reflection of you and as such requires musical and creative attention. To authentically convey that feeling to the guests sharing in this momentous day, your musical input is invaluable.

Over the next months, we'll be working with you on your wedding soundtrack. Building on our experience of what works and what doesn't, we'll guide you in the repertoire selection process from guest arrivals to closing song.

Most of the suggested live acts below are open to learning new repertoire, so if you've got something specific in mind, let us know. While we'll try to our best to accommodate you, we'll also be honest when we feel something won't work musically or is not possible.

Ceremony:

As guests arrive and take their seats for the ceremony, they'll be welcomed by a string quartet including 2 x violins, 1 x cello and 1 x viola performing a selection of songs while guests take their seats at the ceremony. Once all the guests have arrived, string quartet to perform selected songs for the processionals and recessionals. The string quartet's repertoire includes traditional wedding pieces as well as contemporary favourites. Here's a link of them performing Coldplay's – Fix You.

Pre-drinks:

Guests arrive to the authentic and lively sound of Cape Town based Marimba band Il Afro Suns, who play a combination of traditional African repertoire and reinterpreted popular songs. The celebratory tone of the music is a perfect way to build on the emotion created at the ceremony.

With the focus primarily on the Marimbas rather than drummers, the overall intensity and volume will be such that guests can speak and socialize comfortably. We don't recommend having a marimba band play for the duration of the pre-drinks. With this in mind, after 30 – 45-minutes, we've included Rus Nerwich, who'll join Il Afro Suns for a couple of songs, creating an Afro-electronic transition into the remainder of the set.
