Music proposal – Emma Crosby| 11 April 2020

Ceremony: 9-piece Asili Vocal Ensemble accompanied by keys player to perform a combination of traditional African, hymns and contemporary songs.

This snippet was taken off my phone, but I think shows the power of Phumi's voice - one of the leads in the ensemble. Here's another link to them performing a more traditional African repertoire - Instagram - Asili Vocal Ensemble

I've attached a full repertoire list in a separate email, but given that we still have time, we can tailor the repertoire to the clients' specific tastes.

Pre-drinks: Option One - Mapumba Cilombo Trio

Mapumba is a multi-genre world music artist who blends traditional melodies, stories, and languages from his native DRC with original inspirations that deliver a rich, authentic African sound with a modern touch. Best described as an African Tracy Chapman meets Salif Keita, Mapumba's versatility to take listeners on a journey from soul and folk music through reggae, R&B, funk and Afro-pop, combined with his infectious energy and stage presence make his shows an unforgettable kaleidoscope of experiences that linger long after the concerts end. Mapumba's music also carries messages promoting peaceful, just and thriving communities, with conscious lyrics.

Mapumba is involved with a variety of projects and collaborations, including: Kongo Elektro (since 2011) afro-fusion electronic live performance duo with producer-DJ Dan Eppel, Mazula (2017) acoustic afro-fusion live performance trio with Zoe and Vusa Mazula, and various other artists across genres and cultural backgrounds.

Pre-drinks: Option Two - DJ + Trumpet

A simple but effective way of entertaining guests would be for Rus to DJ with the option of live trumpet accompaniment performed by Lee Thomson.

Rus Nerwich's pre-drinks repertoire honours the classics by incorporating soul and jazz favourites, with upbeat contemporary tracks by Gregory Porter, Erykah Badu, etc. This set can be tailored to your specific preference but will undoubtedly be upbeat and get guests to party later on, while not overwhelming conversations.

Pre-drinks: Option Three – The Rivertones

The Rivertones are a Cape Town based Reggae band formed in 2006 by lead vocalist, Roland Geoffrey Nair. The music is an upbeat, skanking, joyful, eclectic, old school reggae sound with our message of 'one love'. 'Most loved Cape Town Reggae band' is how many of our local venues and festivals refer to The Rivertones.
